

Panasonic Named To Top 100 Companies That Matter In Knowledge Management for 2017 by KMWorld

NEWARK, NJ 03/01/2017

Panasonic System Communications Company of North America, an industry-leading producer of best-in-class document management and imaging solutions, today announced receipt of the prestigious Top 100 Companies in Knowledge Management by the publication KMWorld.

“The banner of knowledge management spans a wealth of territory to encompass solutions that range in functionality from the tried-and-true to the futuristic. Those designated to this year’s list of KMWorld 100 Companies That Matter in Knowledge Management run the gamut of capabilities, but share such similar characteristics as innovation, ingenuity, usefulness and resourcefulness,” says KMWorld Editor Sandra Haimila. “Moreover, the companies on this list create solutions that help their customers turn vast amounts of data into usable knowledge that they can leverage to enhance collaboration, gain insights and achieve their goals.”

“We are privileged to be recognized as an industry leader,” said Joseph Odore, Product Manager for Document & Imaging Products, Panasonic System Communications of North America. “We greatly appreciate being acknowledged by KMWorld for providing innovative products offering state-of-the art technologies that streamline workflow and document management processes.”
